Chris Brummer

Agnes Williams Sesquicentennial Professor of Financial Technology; Faculty Director, Institute of International Economic Law, Georgetown Law

Chris Brummer is a Georgetown law professor and author, as well as a trusted advisor to policymakers, founders, firms, and regulators, at the highest levels, around the world. As a lecturer, thought leader, board director and policy architect, he has lent his expertise to leaders grappling with some of the most challenging puzzles facing innovation, technology, inclusion and financial regulation. He has had the pleasure of serving as the keynote speaker for the annual Black History celebrations at the SEC, FinCEN, OCC, CFTC, and His Majesty's Treasury.

Chris graduated summa cum laude from Washington University in St. Louis, earned a Ph.D from the University of Chicago and graduated from law school with honors from Columbia. He is the founder of DC Fintech Week, a free global public policy event held in Washington since 2017, and the founder of Bluprynt, the disclosure company for digital assets.
